Graduate Conference of the Austrian Political Science Association

28-29 November 2019

Institute for Advanced Studies, Vienna

The Austrian Political Science Association (ÖGPW) is pleased to announce its second Graduate Conference to take place on 28-29 November 2019. The event will be hosted by the Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) in Vienna. The conference opens with a public event on Thursday, November 28. Panel sessions are scheduled for Friday, November 29.

The main aim of the conference is to provide a platform for academic exchange and networking of young scholars early in their careers and in an open and productive atmosphere. This conference call is directed particularly at doctoral students and young postdocs to present their research; advanced master's students aiming for an academic career are also very welcome to participate. To foster a stimulating debate we would ask for submissions which go beyond mere project descriptions, but are work in progress and allow for discussion of the theoretical and methodological approaches along with initial results. To ensure substantive feedback, all contributions will be discussed by experienced researchers.

Both individual papers as well as full panels may be submitted (see below). The language of the conference will be English.

Submission of individual papers

Please provide the following information:

- 1) Title of the paper
- 2) Author(s) and presenter (name and affiliation)
- 3) Email address
- 4) Abstract (300 words). Abstracts should present the research question, the main argument as well as the theoretical and methodological approach.
- 5) 4 key words indicating the research field to facilitate the panel organisation

Accepted contributions will be organised into panels by the program committee.

Submission of full panels

Full panels should consist of four papers by scholars from (two or more) different institutions. In addition to the information on the individual papers detailed above, please provide the title of the panel as well as short panel description (100 words).

Deadline for the submission of papers and panels is July 8th 2019

Please send all contributions to: gradconf2019@ihs.ac.at

Additional Information

Deadline for paper submission

All accepted papers (5000 – 8000 words) will have to be submitted by 10 November 2019. To ensure an intensive discussion, the organisation committee will forward the papers to the other panel participants and the discussant.
